Kevin Federline considers getting back together with Britney Spears for the sake of their sons

Kevin Federline used to dread talking to ex-wife Britney Spears. In fact, when he'd look down at his phone and see her number, Kevin would often groan, says a friend of his. But that seems to have changed. When Britney called him one recent afternoon, Kevin's tone was soft and cheery.

"Hey, lady," Kevin said, according to his friend, who was there at the time. "What's up?" The friend tells Life & Style that Kevin, 30, and Britney, 26, then chatted for several minutes, mostly about their sons, Sean Preston, 2, and Jayden James, 1. It was an enormous emotional leap for a couple who just months ago were exchanging messages only via their lawyers — in court during their heated custody battle.

"It's such a huge change," says Kevin's friend. "It hasn't been like this between them in forever."

And it appears to be another sign that the formerly feuding couple are reconciling. As Life & Style has reported, Kevin and Britney shared a kiss in front of their sons several weeks ago. And with Britney on the road to managing her condition after reportedly being diagnosed with bipolar disorder in early February, she and Kevin seem to be growing closer. "They plan on spending more time together," says a Federline family insider. Since their kiss, Britney has been ending her phone calls with Kevin by saying "I love you."

Their kids in crisis

Still, while romance may be in the cards, a Spears family insider says Kevin's primary motivation for getting back with Britney is the well-being of their sons. "Kevin's stayed friendly with Britney's dad," the Spears family insider says. "And he's told [her dad] Jamie how much he wants the boys to have a real family. But he doesn't want to push Britney. He's afraid too much

Britney will get the kids for Mother's Day

Kevin has already agreed to let Sean and Jayden visit Britney on Mother's Day, May 11. Britney also thinks she's ready to keep the boys for overnight visits. She's put in a formal request with the courts, but in the meantime, she's asked Kevin to grant her permission before they move things to the next level permanently. "He hasn't said yes yet, but he's considering it," says a family insider.

A RARE PEACEFUL DAY WITH MOMMY

Britney (here with Sean and Jayden on April 21) will likely be allowed overnight visits as long as they're supervised by her father, Jamie, says a Spears family insider.

MAKING UP FOR TIME SHE LOST?

Britney, here with Sean during an April 14 visit, is worried about the boys' recent behavior, says an insider.

pressure would cause a relapse — and he really doesn't want that to happen."

But as Britney continues to improve, Sean and Jayden are now showing signs of stress, which has Kevin craving another parent around the house. "They've been acting out a lot lately," a Britney insider explains. "Jayden's developed a major temper — and once he gets going, Sean gets riled up, too."

The insider recalls hearing about an incident recently when Kevin tried to serve breakfast to Sean and Jayden as well as to Kori, 5, and Kaleb, 3, his daughter and son with ex-girlfriend Shar Jackson.

"Kevin poured Kori's cereal first, and Jayden just snapped," the insider says. "He screeched and started pulling Kori's hair until she cried. Then Sean started throwing his food at Kaleb and Kori. Kevin ended up having to take the boys to their room."

Kevin lays down the law

With outbursts like this occurring more and more frequently, Kevin's worried the boys' hectic schedule might be the cause. Right now Kevin has sole custody of the boys but allows Britney to see them three times a week for about three hours at a time.

"It's confusing to them to get the car loaded up with a bodyguard, drive to Britney's, play with her for a few hours and then go back home," the insider says. "Everyone's afraid all the back and forth is getting to them."

But before they get emotionally connected, "Kevin wants more from Britney and has told her there are two things she needs to do first," a second friend of Kevin's says. "The first is to stay sober for a long time, which she already seems to be doing. The second is to show him respect. He always felt she lacked respect for him. If they got back together, she'd need to acknowledge him as the one in charge of the family."

THEY'RE BRITNEY'S MEDICINE
Being with her boys makes Britney glow. "They mean everything to her," says a family insider.

And Britney's gotten the message loud and clear. "She understands what she needs to do to have him — and the kids — back in her life on a permanent basis," the friend says. "She's cleaning up her act."

To Britney's dad, Jamie, who's living with his daughter while overseeing her recovery, it's clear Britney's still carrying a torch for her ex. "Jamie knows Britney still has feelings for Kevin," Kevin's friend says.

And Kevin does recognize the practical side of a reconciliation. "Kevin's attracted to the lifestyle Britney can afford him," Kevin's second pal notes. "In the end he thinks it means a better life for his children — and he wants to spare them the pain of growing up in a single-parent home."

BEHIND BRITNEY'S NEW BODY!

BRITNEY'S GOT BACK!
High-impact aerobics and strength training have worked wonders already.

BRITNEY'S NEW MAN
At Bally's, Marc Corliss oversees Britney's exercise regimen.

Britney is looking better than she has in a while — and the man responsible for her new look, personal trainer Marc Corliss, is telling all. Corliss, fitness director of Bally's, the gym where Britney's often spotted working out, tells Life & Style that the mother of two is determined to get her pre-baby body back. "The look on her face, it's just sheer determination," a gym insider says. "She wants to turn her life around." To help her, Corliss has her alternate between cardio and weights. She's also doing lots of crunches. "She's hell-bent on getting her abs back," he says.

GETTING READY FOR BABY

Casey, here with Jamie Lynn in Mississippi on April 26, "thought for sure it was a boy," a witness overheard.

Jamie Lynn's prepping for a girl, but she isn't exactly getting girlie herself. "She refuses to buy maternity clothes," says a family insider.

JAMIE LYNN: IT'S A GIRL!

Life & Style reveals the due date — and how Jamie Lynn Spears is preparing for the arrival of her baby

Lynne Spears isn't thrilled that her youngest daughter is pregnant at 17. But she was delighted to go along with Jamie Lynn to learn the baby's gender — and discover she's finally going to have a granddaughter!

And she wasn't the only one happy with the news. "I heard Lynne talking about Jamie Lynn's baby," says a witness. "She said Jamie Lynn and the baby's dad [Casey Aldridge] were so excited when they found out it's a girl."

Though the witness overheard Lynne, 52, say Casey, 19, is "a bit nervous about having a daughter," Jamie Lynn is eagerly prepping for the arrival of her mini-me. "She has been buying tons of clothes and is going to do the nursery in white, black and yellow," says a Spears family insider — who also reveals that the baby is due on June 29.

Taking some serious steps

Of course, Jamie Lynn has much more on her mind than just decorating — like figuring out what to call her baby girl. "Lynne said Jamie Lynn made a list of all the girl family names on both sides of the family and is trying to incorporate one of them as the middle name," says the witness, who also overheard that "Lynne's flattered to hear her name is being considered."

Jamie Lynn also took a breastfeeding class recently. "She's determined to do it," says the insider, who adds that Lynne and big sis Britney each nursed their kids for a while.

And the pregnant star also is determined to solidify her life with Casey, who she's virtually living with anyway. "She plans on marrying him," says the family insider, who adds that Jamie Lynn wants to have an outdoor wedding next summer. "Jamie Lynn truly believes she loves Casey, and she's excited about the three of them becoming a family."

Jamie Lynn will be even more excited when she can move into the $255,000 three-bedroom, two-and-a-half-bathroom house in Liberty, Miss., that she recently bought for herself, says the insider, and hopes to share with Casey one day. "She doesn't want to live with Lynne anymore," says the family insider. "She wants to move in as soon as possible."

Enjoying her pregnancy

But Jamie Lynn, who needs her parents' consent to marry until she turns 18 (according to Louisiana law), isn't interested in rushing to the altar — at least not before she's lost the baby weight.

"So far, Jamie Lynn has gained 22 pounds," says the family insider. "She thinks she'll lose all the baby weight quickly because she really watches what she eats and she's so young. And as soon as she does, she's going to buy a wedding dress."

TICKLED PINK! Was Jamie Lynn giving us a clue? On March 31, she was spotted carried a pink baby bouncer.

Will Britney finally come home?

Britney hasn't been seen in her hometown of Kentwood, La., in more than a year — but a call from her sister asking Brit to be there for the birth of her niece seems to be all the prompting she needs. "Jamie Lynn wants Casey, Lynne and Britney in the room with her when she delivers," says an insider. "She wants help with breast-feeding, bathing." And when wedding time comes, the insider continues, Jamie Lynn wants Britney by her side as the maid of honor.

Britney was last seen in Kentwood back in November 2006.

What will her baby be like?

If born exactly on time, June 29, the baby would be a Cancer astrologically — and could follow in the footsteps of grandpa Jamie, a chef. "She'd be very tied to her mother and interested in the issue of feeding the world," says astrologer Shelley Ackerman. "She could be a chef or have her own show on the Food Network — perhaps using her energy to solve world hunger."

AN INTIMATE DINNER
Jen and John spent an hour having dinner at Miami's Mandarin Oriental hotel on April 27. "They definitely gave off a couple vibe," says a witness.

A ROMANTIC MOMENT

The new couple got close while relaxing by the pool at the Mandarin around 2 p.m. on April 24. "I saw them holding hands," says a witness.

THE AGE DIFFERENCE WORKED FOR JEN'S FRIEND!

The nine-year age gap between Jen and John doesn't necessarily doom the romance. Jen's best friend, Courteney Cox, 43, is seven years older than David Arquette, and they're going strong!

It isn't easy to snag a table at Michael's Genuine Food & Drink, one of Miami's hottest new restaurants. But Jennifer Aniston and John Mayer aren't your average customers.

On April 25, after the restaurant finished serving lunch, Michael's reopened exclusively for the actress and the singer around 3:30 p.m. And it wasn't a business meeting. "They sat at table 12, where she always sits," a waitress tells Life & Style. The duo, who stayed for 90 minutes, "were having a great time. He would lean in and whisper things to her, kind of close. And she didn't seem to mind at all!"

Jen had a chopped chicken salad and nibbled on John's serrano ham sandwich, according to the general manager, Charles Bell. The pair also shared a chocolate-and-peanut-butter dessert. When they left, any doubt as to whether this was a date was removed. "I saw him put his arm around her, and she held his hand," says an eyewitness. "It was really cute!"

The romance heated up fast

So much for The Rules. Rather than play it cool and wait a few days before going out again, Jen, 39, and John, 30, went on their second date that very night, grabbing dinner with another couple at Miami's Casa Tua. "I walked in around 11:30 p.m.," says an onlooker. "They were just finishing up dinner and hanging out, talking to one another and drinking cocktails. It definitely looked like they were on a double date."

A restaurant insider confirms that the night out was more than friendly: "They were 100 percent on a date." This time John had his arm around Jen in the restaurant and once again whispered in her ear. "She was giggling a lot," the onlooker says. "They left holding hands around 1 a.m.," before reportedly returning to the Mandarin Oriental hotel, where Jen was staying.

Before John left for New York City on April 27, the couple went out again, dining at Café Sambal at the Mandarin, and they also spent time lounging by the hotel pool all weekend.

How it really began

Despite reports they were set up by Jen's pal Sheryl Crow, an insider close to Jen reveals that the duo first met more than a year ago through business associates. (John's pals with Jen's manager, Aleen Keshishian, whose management company has worked with him in the past.) "An attraction has definitely been brewing for a while," the insider says.

When Jen, who's in Miami shooting the comedy Marley & Me with Owen Wilson, found out John was going to be in town as well, "she jumped at the chance to spend time with him," the insider says. "Jen was the one who set up the dates, entirely on her own."

On April 24, Jen and John spent time by the pool at the Mandarin — and word of their budding relationship may have spread fast. That night, at a 25th-anniversary screening of Michael Jackson's "Thriller" video in NYC, Sex and the City actor Jason Lewis laughed off rumors that he and Jen were dating, telling Life & Style, "She's seeing somebody else at this point."

Is John bad for her?

But could Jen be rushing into a romance that will leave her hurting? After all, John has a reputation as a player prone to dishing about his love life: In a 2006 stand-up comedy set, he said food poisoning was all that had kept him from having sex with Jennifer Love Hewitt, and in March he posted a letter to "an ex-lover" on his blog, saying, "Move on with your life and find someone who can put up with you."

But Jen's not dwelling on John's other women. "She doesn't judge on that kind of thing," says the insider. "She's looking for someone who has his own thing going on." In fact, recent flings with noncelebs like British model Paul Sculfor and key grip Brian Bouma didn't last, the insider says, because Jen eclipsed them professionally. "John has an exciting career, and that's more important to her than how many women he's dated."

Still, while Jen seemed eager to spend as much time as possible with John during their whirlwind weekend, she's not running around telling pals she's in love. "They're both enjoying getting to know each other," says a second insider. "I don't think they even know yet where it will go."

Indeed, "Jen hasn't reported much back to her friends about their dates," the first insider says. "But she says she went to Miami with an open mind about relationships. She's ready for romance, and John came along at just the right time."

GOING PUBLIC

Jen and John also hung out by the pool on April 26 and 27. "They looked like a couple to me," says one witness.

That evening Jen and John had dinner and drinks at Casa Tua. "They were flirty," says an onlooker.

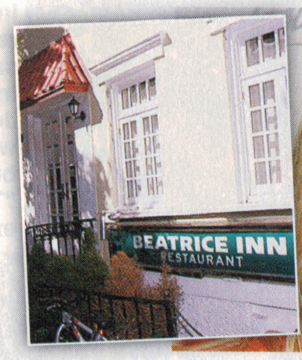
SHE CALLS HERSELF LINDSAY RONSON

It seems Lindsay may have posted a Facebook page using a combination of her name and Sam's.



LINDSAY'S SO POSSESSIVE

Lindsay reportedly yelled "Stay away from my girlfriend!" when Ashley Olsen tried to say hello to Samantha at NYC's Beatrice Inn on April 19.

As far as Lindsay Lohan is concerned, there's no one else in the room when Samantha Ronson's around — as witnesses at Sam's April 24 deejaying gig at Chicago's Hotel Sax can attest.

After checking into their suite earlier in the day, Lindsay, 21, hung with Samantha, 30, in her DJ booth for most of the night. "Lindsay didn't talk to anyone else the whole night," reports an observer. "She sat with Samantha, smoked cigarettes and drank Red Bull."

After sleeping in the next morning, the two checked out and headed to Las Vegas, where Samantha was working the next night. "I don't think they left the hotel the entire time they were here," an observer notes.

If they didn't, it's easy to understand why: According to several insiders, Lindsay and Samantha are not only best friends, they're in love, too.

Friends with benefits

Samantha has actually been in love with pal Lindsay for about a year, says an insider. But Lindsay has only recently returned her feelings.

"Sam is like the perfect mate Lindsay's always been looking for," the insider says. "Samantha's happy to be with her 24/7 and to give Lindsay all the attention she wants."

And, according to the insider, "they're sleeping together. I don't think Samantha is seeing anyone else. They don't walk around making out in public because they don't need to. They don't feel the need to flaunt their relationship for the cameras."

Is their relationship healthy?

But happy as they may be, friends of both girls are worried about the effect they have on each other. "Sam knows in her heart that Lindsay isn't really gay," says a mutual friend. "So she basically lives in fear of every new cute guy that comes along and hits on Lindsay. She knows she's going to lose her sooner or later."

And while members of Lindsay's inner circle adore Samantha, they worry what will happen if and when the two eventually break up. "Right now, Sam is her whole world," a pal explains. "If she lost her, Lindsay would be devastated."

Insiders describe a red-hot romance

FRIENDS AND LOVERS

Lindsay calls Sam "my Samantha," says a pal. "And she'll ask people, 'Have you seen my girl?'"

Is Lindsay a kept woman?

Think Lindsay Lohan's the one with the money in this relationship? Think again. Samantha's not only an heiress (her stepdad is Foreigner guitarist Mick Jones and her family is worth some $300 million), she's also a successful businesswoman who can make up to $100,000 a night as a DJ. And she loves to shower Lindsay with money. "Sam pays for everything," an insider says. "She's definitely Lindsay's sugar mama," another insider says.

Star's FIN had enou

Star Jones gives her husband, Al Reynolds, the boot — and misses out on the fairy-tale ending she wanted so badly

Star Jones once called her husband, Al Reynolds, the "absolute love of my life." But that clearly isn't the case anymore. On March 26, two days after she celebrated her 46th birthday, Star filed for divorce from Al in New York Supreme Court in Manhattan. The former View co-host managed to keep the split hush-hush for a month, but when the news finally leaked on April 23, she issued a statement.

"The dissolution of a marriage is a difficult time in anyone's life that requires privacy with one's thoughts," she said. "I have committed myself to handling this situation with dignity and grace and look forward to emerging from this period a stronger and wiser woman."

But while Star insists on taking the high road and not getting into the gory details, insiders close to the former couple say she's relieved to be out of the marriage at last. "She really wanted to be in love and thought she was, but Al never contributed," says an insider who attended their wedding in 2004. "He was out at parties while she was working. She won't say anything bad about him, but there's not much left between them."

Bedroom secrets

Al's love of the nightlife wasn't the only thing that came between the couple. Ever since they met at a party in 2003, his sexuality has been a topic of debate.

"And Star knew what she was getting into from the beginning," says a second insider close to Al. "She loved having a best friend and lover. But in the end she was embarrassed by all the rumors about him."

For his part, Al's also refrained from bad-mouthing Star, saying in a statement, "We are taking the high road." And the split hasn't exactly left him reeling. While Star was vacationing in Costa Rica with friends when the news of the divorce hit, Al was in Miami, where he teaches urban sociology and introduction to sociology at Florida Memorial University. "I saw him two days ago discussing a grade with a student," one student told Life & Style on April 24. "He didn't seem distraught or upset."

Al currently lives in their Miami condo. "He goes out all the time and likes to party at the clubs," says the Al insider. "He dances like there's no tomorrow."

Unfortunately for Al, he may lose the condo because of the prenup he's said to have signed. Still, he's reportedly lawyered up with attorney Stanford Lotwin, who's handled divorces for Howard Stern and Donald Trump.

"Star should stick to the prenup and give him nothing," says another insider. "I'm surprised the marriage lasted this long. Actually, I'm surprised it started to begin with."

The way they were

Star earned the nickname "Bridezilla" after her over-the-top wedding to Al in 2004.

ALLY

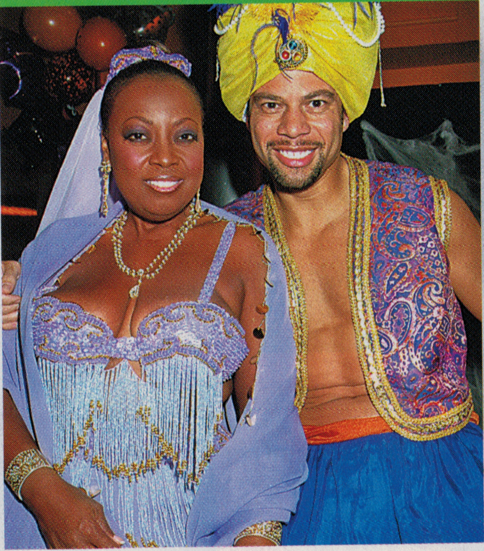
"Star was in it for companionship," says an insider who attended her wedding to Al. "In the beginning, she had that."

STAR SUPPORTED HIM

Al lived the high life with Star. Did he take advantage of her? "He's a gold digger," says an insider close to Al.

SHE LIVED WITH THE GAY RUMORS



"One week Al is a gay man," Star once said of the rumors. "The next he's a philanderer with six women." He took a lot of heat for this flamboyant Halloween costume in 2004.

ANGELINA'S EATING FOR THREE!

Angelina Jolie, who's expecting twins this summer, was a vision in yellow as she dined at Hollywood's Marino restaurant on April 24. "She ate everything, including pasta and appetizers," says an eyewitness. "She loves the arrabbiata sauce." It was Angelina's third trip to Marino in two weeks, this time to meet with her agent. "They seemed to be talking about a project," the witness says, adding that all eyes were on the actress. "Most of the regulars at Marino are pretty jaded and not impressed with celebrities. But when she's in here, everyone gawks. She's sweet about it, though. She even signed an autograph for some woman's nephew."

Of course, Angelina, 32, had to have her dessert before tending to her fans. "She ordered the profiteroles," says the witness. "Then she took a slice of apple pie to go!"

Angelina (here on April 24) also likes to bring Brad Pitt to Marino restaurant. "They were here last week," says an insider. "They were totally down-to-earth."

Party at the Jolie-Pitt house!

Angelina and Brad threw a small get-together for their neighbors and friends (including actor Casey Affleck) at their Los Feliz, Calif., home on April 27. While the guests stayed inside, Shiloh (left), 23 months, and Zahara, 3, were taken outside for a pool party!

"I'm really happy he's here with me," said Miranda, with Orlando at Sydney's Doncaster Day at Randwick racecourse.

Orlando and Miranda: It's getting serious

In their first public appearance together, Orlando Bloom, 31, and his Australian girlfriend, model Miranda Kerr, 25, played the ponies at a major horse-racing event in Sydney on April 26. "It's great to be here," said Orlando. The couple's romance seems to be on the fast track as well. Just a day earlier, Orlando met Miranda's parents for lunch at a Sydney restaurant. "It was fun, but it wasn't a big-deal lunch," the Victoria's Secret model says. Still, the city was abuzz with news about the couple, who have been dating since late last year. "We have such busy schedules," Miranda says, "so we really try to spend as much time together as possible."

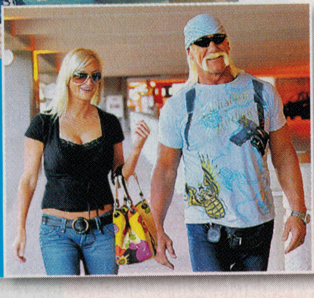
Andy started exchanging flirty e-mails with Shana (above) while he was still dating Marla, says an insider.

Has Andy already moved on?

The Bachelor's Andy Baldwin must not have been too serious about Marla Maples. An insider says the 31-year-old is already seeing The Amazing Race's Shana Wall, 32, who used to date Ryan Seacrest. And the two reality-show stars aren't exactly hiding their relationship. On April 15, Andy took Shana to The Ivy in Beverly Hills. "He kissed her while they waited for her car," says the insider. "A romance is definitely in bloom."

Brooke and her dad double-date

Looks like Brooke Hogan approves of her father's new girlfriend. Brooke and her beau, a guy named Jonathan, according to a pal of Brooke's, dined with Hulk and girlfriend Jennifer McDaniel at Michael's in Santa Monica on April 25. "It's Brooke's birthday on May 5, and she wanted to celebrate with her dad," says the pal. "So she flew out early from Miami." The next day, Brooke and Jonathan were seen frolicking in a pool. "He's nice," adds the pal. "He's good for her."



Brooke, Jonathan, Jennifer and Hulk were joined by another couple, says a pal.

Life&Style WEEKLY EXCLUSIVE

MARIAH & MARK: IT'S OVER!

Mariah Carey's single again — or is she? The singer confirmed for the first time that she has split with her reported boyfriend of four years, record exec Mark Sudack. During a party to celebrate her new film, Tennessee, on April 26 at NYC hot spot Tenjune, Mariah nodded yes when a Life & Style reporter asked if the 39-year-old pop diva and Sudack were through.

But then she smiled coyly when asked about rumors that she's dating actor Nick Cannon. "I'm just really happy. Everything's great these days!" she told Life & Style.

Nick, 27, who appears in Mariah's video for "E=MC²," also turned up at the bash, and the two chatted all night. "Mariah looked very, very happy, tossing her hair and laughing and looking into Nick's eyes," says one partygoer. "They seemed to be romantic."

They had also looked cozy at Privé Las Vegas on April 14. So, Mariah, are you in love? "Maybe!" she replied, laughing.

Mariah, who split with Mark (above, left), is rumored to be engaged to Nick (above). "Rumors happen," says Nick. "She's a great person. She's probably the most festive, remarkable person I've ever met."

Richie jokes about his DUI

Poking fun at his mug shot, Richie said, "I looked worse than Nick Nolte!"

Richie Sambora, 48, pleaded guilty to drunk driving on April 22, but he doesn't seem to be taking the charge too seriously. He laughed about it three days later when he performed at a party (sponsored by Orzel Vodka!) at the Las Olas River House in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "On my way here," he cracked, "I got pulled over for flying under the influence!" Then Richie's pal, Richie Zupa, played a song about the rocker called "I Wanna Go to Rehab." "Can you imagine the video?" Sambora said. "I'll call Paris. Lindsay would show up for sure. She was in rehab with me last year."

Jamie-Lynn and Scott "were really going separate ways," says an insider.

Jamie-Lynn and Scott: Why they split

Sopranos star Jamie-Lynn Sigler, 26, hung out with friends at the Coachella music festival on April 25, following her split with her boyfriend of two years, Scott Sartiano, 33. "They broke up because they're both so focused on their careers," an insider reveals. "She's in LA, he's in New York. They're doing what's best for them." Says a second insider close to Scott, the co-owner of NYC hot spots Butter and 1 Oak, "Things hadn't been good for a long time. Scott's fun, but it just didn't work out."

"The boy is gone," Oprah joked after Tom bounced around on her couch in May 2005. "What has happened to you?"

TOM AND OPRAH REUNITE!

Three years after his infamous jumping-on-the-couch incident, Tom Cruise is set to return to The Oprah Winfrey Show. "Oprah is finally making good on her promise to have Tom on her show again," says an insider.

Tom's upcoming visit to the daytime talk show could still prove as memorable as the last one. The two-part episode, scheduled to air during May sweeps, is a tribute to the megastar's 25 years in show business and will include taped segments with Tom's former co-stars Rebecca De Mornay, Matt Dillon and Lea Thompson, says the insider. Tom, 45, will be in the studio with Oprah on May 5, but cameras will also follow him to his Telluride, Colo., home on May 2 — with wife Katie Holmes, 29, and their 2-year-old daughter, Suri, there by his side.

"Oprah wants to remind people why Tom became a star in the first place," says the insider. This time, the insider adds, Oprah doesn't want any surprises, so she's been very hands-on and prepping for the show since early April. And nothing will be off-limits, including Scientology.

Tom's on board for M:I 4!

Tom's also reuniting with Sumner Redstone, CEO of Viacom (which owns Paramount Pictures) and the mastermind behind the Mission: Impossible franchise. The pair met up at the Beverly Hills Hotel on March 27, two years after Redstone dropped Tom's production company. "Tom will make M:I 4 once Paramount greenlights the script," says an insider. "There will most definitely be another Mission: Impossible!"

America and Ryan's house has a dog run for Buddy, their golden retriever.

America and Ryan's new love nest

After months of house-hunting, America Ferrera has finally found a home in the Hollywood Hills for herself and aspiring-director beau Ryan Piers Williams. America, 24, paid $1.4 million for the modest (by star standards!) three-bedroom, 3½-bath home. "She got a good deal," says a friend of America's. "It's nice but kind of a fixer-upper." And there's bigger news ahead: "Now that they've found the perfect house, they've decided to get married next year — after they've had time to fix it up and settle in," the friend reveals.

Tom reportedly started dating Gisele in late 2006, after splitting with Bridget (below).

Tom to Bridget: I'm marrying Gisele

Tom Brady, 30, wants to pop the question to Gisele Bündchen, 27. "Tom recently told Bridget the news," an insider says, referring to Tom's ex Bridget Moynahan, 37, the mother of his 8-month-old son, John. "Tom also said he wants Gisele to develop a relationship with John. And Bridget had to be okay with it." But how okay is she? "She's still taking their split badly," says the insider. "She never guessed Tom would fall so hard for Gisele."

"Heidi thinks every piece of Lauren's line looks the same," says a pal of hers.

HEIDI AND LAUREN FIGHT IT OUT!

Heidi Montag and Lauren Conrad are at war again. This time, the Hills beauties are duking it out over their respective clothing lines, Heidiwood and the Lauren Conrad Collection.

"Heidi and Lauren are neck and neck in unit sales," Fraser Ross, owner of Kitson, the hot LA shop that carries both lines, tells Life & Style. An insider says, "Both lines are great, fun and flirty, and both manage to tap into what young girls want to wear today."

But the insider says Heidi, 21, may have the edge on her 22-year-old rival: "Heidi's line is a lot cheaper than Lauren's and is flying off shelves. But Lauren is holding her own."

Neither woman is quaking in her designer boots, to be sure. "Lauren wasn't really worried that Heidi's line would outshine hers because she knows Heidi has never had great taste," says a pal.

And Heidi? "She thinks Lauren's line is lame," says a member of Team Heidi. "Heidi was expecting a little more creativity from Lauren, but after seeing the clothes, she realized they're all Lauren is capable of because she's boring."

Even with Brody, who recently broke up with his girlfriend, Cora Skinner, in the house, "Lauren and Doug totally hit on each other," says an eyewitness. Brody, unfazed by the hookup, tells Life & Style, "Good for her. That's fine."

Jason talks about House — and Sex!

Jason's character ends up being kidnapped on House.

Even House can't resist heartthrob Jason Lewis. On the series' May 5 episode on Fox, Jason plays a soap star dying of brain cancer, or so Dr. House believes. "Hugh Laurie is great," Jason, 36, tells Life & Style about the show's star. "It was really fun." And quite funny: House's diagnosis is based solely on watching the soap opera on TV!

So what about the reported demise of a main character in the upcoming Sex and the City movie? "Someone dies?" asks Jason, who plays Smith in the flick and is either a really good actor or is really in the dark about a possible plot twist. "You probably know more than I do."

Shannen, here strumming in her garden in her own vintage peasant dress, says she has a collection of eight guitars. Her two "super-happy" dogs are by her side.

Life & Style takes a peek inside the star's homey Malibu estate

LAZY DAYS
"In the summer, I use my pool area nonstop," Shannen says. "To have two acres in Malibu overlooking the ocean is unbelievable. The space feels so open, yet you still have privacy."

HAIR: DAVID GARDNER/SOLO ARTISTS; MAKEUP: SPENCER BARNES/SOLO ARTISTS; STYLING: SASA/SOLO ARTISTS

Actress Shannen Doherty is best known as the impressionable Brenda on Beverly Hills 90210, but one look inside her Malibu home reveals a very different side of the centered star. "My life story can be told through my house," Shannen tells Life & Style. "I love that strangers come in and see who I am. They can see pictures everywhere of my family, friends, nieces and goddaughter. You want to be surrounded by the people who love you and whom you love."

And as Life & Style learned during a visit to the star's home on April 18, her Malibu estate has an ocean view and is dotted with memories of her life — from her grandmother's handmade afghan that sits on her favorite reading chair to two original Salvador Dali etchings (one that she bought for a steal at LA's Bel Age Hotel while filming 90210), which remind her of her father, who loves the artist.

A peek inside

Some of Shannen's most beloved keepsakes are in her expansive living room, which boasts a high-beam ceiling, crisp white walls and a red stone-tiled floor. "It's my favorite room because it's so eclectic," explains the 37-year-old star. "It has its little separate areas, and it's like nature has been brought inside because of all the big windows. You feel like there's no separation between you and outside. It's constant light, which makes you happy."

Along with the sunlight, Shannen likes that her home bridges the gap between past and present. "I like to mix newer stuff that has modern accents with antique pieces," says Shannen about the items she collects from all over the world. "You can almost feel the history behind each piece."

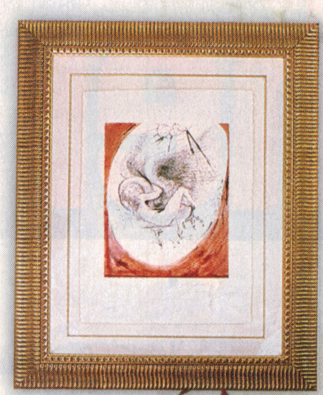
Lining the living-room walls (which she keeps white to showcase her art) are black-and-white photos, like the ones of Jim Morrison and Axl Rose a photographer friend gave to her. "There's nothing like black-and-white photos on a white wall," she says.

Room to grow

But in the end, the most important treasures in her house are her two dogs: Leroy, a mastiff, and Roamy, a long-haired German shepherd. "They're my children — this house is their house. It's more their house than mine," she says. "In truth, I have nine kids: I have seven horses and two dogs."

And one day, Shannen, who's currently enjoying the single life, plans on expanding her brood — with actual kids! "I definitely want a child," says the star, who adds that adoption isn't out of the question. "I just don't know when that's going to be."

For now, Shannen's happy to indulge her shoe fetish — she has about 300 pairs that she divides between upstairs and downstairs closets — and, in true Southern belle style, entertain her pals. "Most of my friends call my house 'the resort,' and they all come over for the weekend," says Shannen. "We're all sort of growing up, and it's not about going out now. It's about staying home and just having fun here."



SHANNEN'S ARTSY SIDE She was thrilled to find two Salvador Dali etchings. The art is a favorite of her dad, whom Shannen calls her hero.

A TIME CAPSULE Shannen savors family memorabilia, like the "I love you" letter (below) she wrote to the Valentine's Day Fairy when she was 5 or 6.

SHANNEN'S HOME "OFFICE" While there are talks of a 90210 spin-off, Shannen is writing a TV show based on experiences from her own Southern family. "It couldn't be more different from 90210," says Shannen, here lounging in a Z-Brand shirt and gold Branch ring.

MIX AND MATCH The focal point of Shannen's eclectic living room, adorned with numerous French antiques, is a Guatemalan bed she turned into a coffee table.

A FEMININE TOUCH Butterfly dishes are the one "girlie thing" she says she has. "I have a dish fetish thanks to my mom," says Shannen, who loves to cook, a passion she picked up from her dad.

Designer Anne Fontaine shares her insider tips

1 KEEP WHITES BRIGHT

For best results, wash shirts by hand in cold water with a mild detergent or in the washing machine on a delicate cycle with other whites only. If shirts start to yellow, use a non-chlorinated whitener (like OxiClean Free Versatile Stain Remover, $7, oxiclean.com). I also like to air-dry mine.

2 TO TUCK OR NOT TO TUCK?

Wearing a blouse outside jeans or a skirt tends to look more casual and is best with a daytime look. When I wear mine untucked, I give shape to my outfit by adding a belt or even a bustier. Another fun, casual option is to knot it in front. For an evening-appropriate look, tuck the shirt in and add a belt with a fancier buckle.

3 FIND THE PERFECT FIT

Make sure the shirt isn't pulling at the bustline or at the shoulder; it's better to buy a bigger blouse and alter it rather than squeeze into one that's too small. Also, a hip-length style is the most versatile because it can be worn in a variety of ways.

A guilt-free guide to summer cocktails

Looks like Spencer Pratt and Heidi Montag love mimosas!

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

A WHITE WINE SPRITZER CUTS CALORIES

Nutrition expert Teresa Howes says wine lovers can save calories (about 50 to 60 per drink) by cutting a 5-ounce glass of white wine in half and filling the rest with club soda.

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

SIMPLIFY A COSMO

Cosmopolitans are so Sex and the City, but Howes says there are about 300 calories in a 5-ounce serving! Instead, mix 2 ounces of vodka with 3 ounces of light cranberry juice for a roughly 140-calorie treat.

Before refilling that supersize poolside piña colada, consider the result: Drinking four of those creamy cocktails — at more than 300 calories per glass — could eat up almost a day's worth of calories! "In general, if it tastes sweet or has a salty rim, it's bad news," nutrition expert Teresa Howes, author of the upcoming book SkinnyTinis: All the Fun for Half the Calories, tells Life & Style. In fact, Howes says that adding just 5 ounces of sugary syrups or high-calorie mixers to 2 to 5 ounces of alcohol can potentially create a 700-calorie cocktail disaster.

But a couple of drinks at a pool party or during Friday-night happy hour don't have to completely derail a diet. Howes says there are plenty of easy ways to make cocktails more waistline-friendly (like using diet cola or club soda as a mixer). Here's how to sip — and stay skinny!

Rachel Bilson seems to be keeping her cocktails light with a glass of champagne.

Indulging in a drink doesn't always mean diet disaster! Here's how to lighten the menu for the season

KEEP CHOCOLATE COCKTAILS CLEAR, NOT CREAMY

Ditch the 6-ounce, roughly 600-calorie chocolate shake (made with Irish cream and crème de cacao) and sip a satisfying 188-calorie chocolate martini (2 ounces of vodka and ½ an ounce of crème de cacao).

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

ADD CHAMPAGNE INSTEAD OF VODKA TO MORNING DRINKS

Make a mimosa! Shave off nearly 100 calories from a 5-ounce screwdriver (a 170-calorie combo of vodka and orange juice) by replacing the vodka with 2 ounces of champagne.

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

SWAP THE DAIQUIRI MIXES FOR A SPLASH OF FLAVOR

A strawberry daiquiri from a bar (often made with a sugary mix) can be upward of 300 calories, says Howes. She suggests saving about 170 calories with a Strawberry Splash — 1½ ounces of white rum, 3 ounces of club soda and ½ an ounce of strawberry schnapps.

SAY NO TO MARGARITA-VILLE!

Howes says there's a better alternative to a 5-ounce frozen margarita (usually made with tequila, triple sec and sweet-and-sour mix — and more than 300 calories). A tequila sunrise (2 ounces of tequila, 2½ ounces of orange juice and a splash of grenadine) has about 200 calories.

DRINK THIS NOT THAT

DRINK TIP!

Higher-proof alcohol packs a more powerful punch, but it isn't better for the bod! While 80-proof vodka (which is 40 percent alcohol) has 64 calories per ounce, 100-proof vodka (50 percent alcohol) has 82!

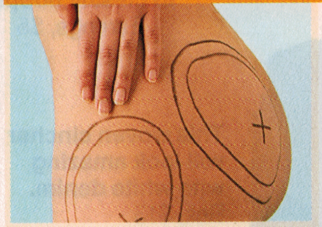
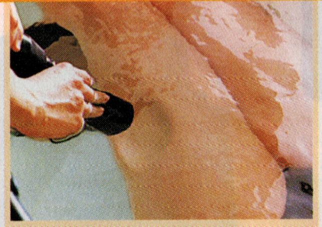
The lowdown on four hot new treatments



What it is: Bikini Bottom Booster. "It's lipo performed specifically on saddle bags, buttocks and love handles," says plastic surgeon Dr. Mauro Romita, founder of Ajune spa in NYC.

How it works: New, more precise instruments allow surgeons to remove stubborn fat from areas like the butt and hips.

Results: The up-to-two-hour surgery costs $3,000 to $6,000 and can streamline inches off a bottom — with virtually no scarring!



What it is: Cellulite Water Reduction Therapy is a new hydrotherapy spa treatment for cellulite.

How it works: Clients at the Medical Spa at Nova in Ashburn, Va., lie in a tub while a pressurized stream of water is run up the legs and buttocks. "It boosts circulation, helping rid the body of excess fluid, which improves the appearance of the skin," says Ken Brown, certified massage therapist.

Results: "It makes dimples less obvious," says Brown of the $120 near-hour-long procedure.

What it is: The Sciton Skin Tyte laser makes skin on the butt appear firmer.

How it works: "The laser sends pulses of light into the skin, inflaming the tissue," says plastic surgeon Dr. Jason N. Pozner of the Aesthetic Science Institute in Boca Raton, Fla. "As the tissue repairs itself, collagen is made. Collagen is the substance that keeps skin strong, so more collagen improves the elasticity and appearance of skin."

Results: It takes two to four $800 to $1,500 sessions to get tightened up.

What it is: The Fanny Facial perfects the texture of skin on the behind.

How it works: Beverly Hills dermatologist Dr. Harold Lancer uses heavy exfoliants and natural peels (to basically buff the skin on the buttocks) as well as custom-blended masks, all of which, he says, treat a variety of issues, including acne, dry skin, bumps and uneven skin tone.

Results: The $300 one-hour rubdown makes bottoms look softer and smoother!

EXPERT Q&A

Beauty tips A

Nick Barose, Clarins celeb

Q: I love bronzer, but I'm afraid I'll look orange. What's a simple way to get a really natural-looking glow?

A: Women go overboard with bronzer when they choose a cream or powder, which is too heavy on the skin. The key to a pretty tan is using a lightweight translucent bronzer, which won't cake or cause streaking. Heidi Montag of The Hills loves to look tan, so when I got her ready for the debut of her new fashion line, Heidiwood, I used a tinted bronzing gel. It goes on sheer and makes her skin look naturally sun-kissed.

Michelle Trachtenberg's sheer blush doesn't overwhelm her fair skin.

Q: I love my shimmer blush, but my friend says it makes my skin look bumpy. What should I do?

A: Your friend is right. Powder blushes with shimmery undertones tend to magnify the texture of the skin, making pores, blemishes and fine lines stand out. Instead, try a mousse blush. Unlike a cakey powder or thick cream blush, it has an airy feel and goes on sheer for a natural-looking flush. I used a whipped blush on Michelle Trachtenberg of Gossip Girl and it gave her a healthy dose of color without looking too rosy. And mousses dry so quick, even oily skin won't look greasy!

A dab of this whipped blush blends effortlessly for a hint of color on the apples of cheeks. Maybelline New York Dream Mousse Blush in Soft Plum, $8, drugstores

Q: What's a quick way to take my makeup from desk to drinks?

A: Adding a coat of brightly colored mascara to upper lashes only is an easy way to add drama to your daytime look. (Color on both top and bottom looks dated.) Tinted mascara is such a hot trend right now, and wearing it this way creates an edgy yet playful evening look. Blue is best for brown eyes, purple is perfect for green eyes and turquoise is gorgeous for blue eyes.

Q: I'm tired of my winter makeup and want to update my look. What new shades should I try, and how should I wear them?

A: For spring we're seeing a lot of bold pop art–inspired colors like canary yellow, fire-engine red and electric blue. These shades are so '80s, but subtle application techniques make them look totally modern. Have fun wearing these strong hues and still look fresh by sporting the same shade on nails and lips. If you're really adventurous, try brights on the eyes, too. Line the top lid (using shadow or pencil) with a bold color like cobalt, then line the bottom lid with a lighter shade in the same color family, like sky blue.

Q: I keep seeing all these new concealer and foundation pens. Do they actually work?

A: They do! Pens are great for on-the-go touch-ups and perfect for covering up facial areas with tiny corners and creases, like around the eyes. The formulas are also extra silky, so they go on seamlessly. Plus, the brushes bend, which means they don't put too much pressure on delicate skin.

Q: I spend an hour on my makeup every morning, but by lunch it's either completely worn off or faded. Help!

A: I use Clarins Fix Make-Up on my celebrity clients because they need to look perfect all day. After applying makeup, spritz the mist all over the face. Strappy sandals: fierce or faux pas?

Gladiator heels look great on the stars, but do they work for real women?

Naughty and nice: KATIE HOLMES pairs Azzedine Alaïa sandals with a girlie dress.

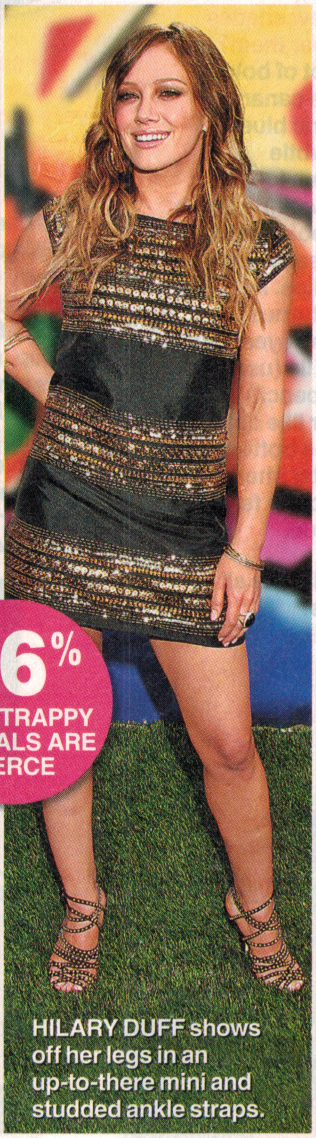
SAY STRAPPY SANDALS ARE FIERCE



HILARY DUFF shows off her legs in an up-to-there mini and studded ankle straps.

Givenchy shoes add a modern edge to GWYNETH PALTROW's vintage YSL dress.

The $725 Balenciaga gladiators are a stunning addition to SJP's city-chic ensemble. Heidi's outfit is just too casual.

Super-strappy gladiator sandals are all the rage this season. "And there's a style for every mood," says Meghan Cleary, shoe expert at MissMeghan.com. Feeling wild? Work the trend with architectural heels. For a more relaxed (and wearable) look, try the flat versions in either neutral or python-print leather.

Would these gladiators work off the red carpet? Readers weigh in

I LIKE THEIR ATTITUDE!
"These high-heeled styles are a little more bad-ass, and sexier, than traditional flats. And I like the high ankle straps, especially with knee-length skirts."
—Maureen Dempsey, Wilbraham, Mass.

THEY'RE VERSATILE!
"It's a timeless style, so they're well worth the money. I like them best when they look princessy, like Katie Holmes', and not so warriorlike, à la SJP's."
—Alison Lang, New York City

THEY'RE TOO SEXY!
"I don't think I'll be buying any of these shoes. They're too kinky — only a style icon like Gwyneth can pull them off. I prefer more practical gladiators that I can actually walk in."
—Joanna Powell, Washington, Conn.

BY ASTROLOGER BRIDGETT WALTHER

FOR THE WEEK OF MAY 5 – MAY 11

AUDRINA'S BIRTHDAY: MAY 9, 1985

TAURUS
APRIL 20 – MAY 20

SPOTLIGHT'S ON YOU!

Soak up extra attention this week. Admirers can't get their fill of you (or birthday girl Audrina Patridge) — they all want more, more, more! This presents a great opportunity to boost your status and self-esteem. Plus, a relationship could quickly move to the next level.

GEMINI
MAY 21 – JUNE 20

Nothing gets past you. Like fellow Gemini Kylie Minogue, you have a knack for gauging others' sincerity. If you feel like people aren't being totally up-front, call them on it. You'll feel better, and others will have greater respect for you.

CANCER
JUNE 21 – JULY 22

Curbing the urge to splurge on your favorite things is such a pain — so why bother this week? Everyone needs a break from strict routines now and then, and this is your time to relax and enjoy. Don't waste a second of it!

LEO
JULY 23 – AUG. 22

Every move you make sparks interest. Others are eager to hear what you (and sign mate Charlize Theron) have to say because they value your opinion so much. Remember, you can use this kind of influence to your advantage!

VIRGO
AUG. 23 – SEPT. 22

Long-awaited travel plans finally come together! A great trip with friends provides the perfect change of scenery for you this weekend. So stop worrying about work, school and everything else, and turn your trip into the ultimate escape!

LIBRA
SEPT. 23 – OCT. 23

Find ways to save money. Figure out exactly what it is you're looking for and shop around. There are tons of deals out there, Libra, and one's got your name written all over it. Happy bargain hunting!

SCORPIO
OCT. 24 – NOV. 22

Passion runs high as you become even closer to a loved one. By opening up and putting your feelings out there, someone you trust and respect will let you know how much you're appreciated in return. Lucky you!

SAGITTARIUS
NOV. 23 – DEC. 20

Banish the word "no" from your vocabulary this week, Sagittarius. Accept all incoming invitations. A job offer, party invite or chance to spend time with your crush will lead to bigger things and send your confidence sky-high.

CAPRICORN
DEC. 21 – JAN. 19

Stop traffic with your irrepressible personality. You're incredibly alluring, giving off intense vibes everywhere you go. Normally you try to obey the rules and behave, but give in to your impulses for a change. It's just too hard to be good right now. Besides, sometimes it's fun to be a little naughty.

AQUARIUS
JAN. 20 – FEB. 18

A move could be in your future, probably sooner rather than later! Embrace the change. It will simplify your life, eliminate long commutes and increase your comfort level. You're ready to start some serious nesting — all you need is the perfect location. This week could provide just that!

PISCES
FEB. 19 – MARCH 19

You're strong under pressure. Just like sign mate Kristin Davis, you know exactly how to calm down others and make them feel safe and happy. It's time to use those skills to soothe a pal's frayed nerves or help prop up another's ego. After all, they would gladly do the same for you.

ARIES
MARCH 20 – APRIL 19

Go after what you want. Projecting confidence and strength will give you (and fellow Aries Keri Russell) access to the opportunities you've been hoping for — and you deserve it. There will be a new bounce in your step and more money in your pocket.

"Cylaris™ is a far superior product to anything else I've ever tried before. It does just what it says it's going to do!" – Jamie Goss

Results will vary. Jamie used Cylaris™ for 39 weeks with diet and exercise.

WHEN it comes to finding a strong weight-loss formula for fast results, Cylaris™ is the answer.

Look at the incredible results Jamie Goss, a photographer from Wall, New Jersey, achieved with Cylaris™. She lost an unbelievable 52 pounds! Here's what Jamie has to say about Cylaris™:

"Cylaris was a very strong supplement for me. The strength of a formula is very important, because then you know the product you're investing your time, effort and energy in is worth it. If a product isn't strong enough to make a difference, then it is not worth taking."

The ultra-strong Cylaris™ formula was developed by a medical doctor-led♦ research team to deliver fast results by supporting favorable metabolic signaling. This unique and powerful formula, along with diet and exercise, can deliver almost three times the weight! Get Cylaris™ today and see how strong it really is. You could lose weight like never before!

SUDOKU

HOW TO PLAY:

It's as easy as 1, 2, 3! Don't be afraid of the numbers — math skills have nothing to do with it! Sudoku consists of a large grid separated into nine 3-by-3 minigrids. To complete the puzzle, fill in the missing numbers. Every minigrid and every row (horizontal and vertical) must contain the numbers 1 through 9, without any repeats. The numbers can appear in any order. Don't get frustrated! It may take a little while to figure out the technique that works best for you. And use a pencil — you'll definitely need the eraser!

WHO IS THE IRON MAN?

IRON MAN

Iron gets the summer-movie season off to a strong start

Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr.) isn't like other superheroes: He's a boozing, womanizing billionaire weapons developer. But after being taken prisoner in Afghanistan, he devotes himself to ridding the world of the deadly arms he helped create — with help from a pimped-out suit of armor and a pretty assistant with the unfortunate name of Pepper Potts (Gwyneth Paltrow). It's only May, but Iron Man (directed by Jon Favreau, best known for Elf) has pretty much everything you could want in a summer blockbuster: awesome special effects, jaw-dropping action scenes — plus a sense of humor and compelling story that make this much more than eye candy. ★★★★

Fight to see this gripping drama

Redbelt only looks like a martial arts flick. Written and directed by David Mamet (The Spanish Prisoner), this twisty-turny drama focuses on short-on-cash jujitsu teacher Mike Terry (Chiwetel Ejiofor), who gets sucked into a sleazy world after saving an actor (Tim Allen) in a bar brawl on the same night a jumpy woman (Emily Mortimer) walks into his academy and sets off a wild chain of events. The ending's a letdown, but until then, it's a thrilling and unpredictable ride. ★★★½

MADE OF HONOR

SNEAK PEEK

Dempsey pursues his dream girl (another man's fiancée) in this sweet romantic comedy

Patrick Dempsey stars as a guy who sets out to sabotage the wedding of his best friend (Michelle Monaghan) — because he's secretly in love with her. It isn't the most original premise — we liked this movie a decade ago when it was called My Best Friend's Wedding — but with McDreamy taking over the Julia Roberts role, Made of Honor is certain to have it made.

Son of Rambow

Stallone would be proud

When a young member of a religious sect, a boy who's never seen TV, gets hold of a bootleg copy of Rambo: First Blood, he teams with the school delinquent to make a sequel. Rambow is inventive, funny and endearing, though it eventually wears a little thin. Bonus: Ed Westwick (Gossip Girl's Chuck) has a small role, and he uses his real British accent. ★★½☆
